Use of Nalline Tests on Youth Under CYA Parole to be Started

By CHARLES E. CHAPEL, Assemblyman, 46th District. Heman G. Stark, director, California Youth Authority, a division of the Department of Corrections, State of California, has reported that his parole agents are now using the Nalline Test which was authorized for the first time in California in accordance with my Assembly Bill No. 2738, signed into law by the Governor in 1959 as an anti-narcotics measure. Nearly one of every five young people under the supervision of the California Youth Authority has been involved in some way with narcotics, according to Director Stark's recent report. He also said that one in 50 California Youth Authority charges are actual narcotic addicts, based upon a survey he completed in July, 1960.

Even before his survey was completed Stark enrolled seven of his parole agents in special training classes making use of Nalline Test Act and he now plans to begin a wide-spread Nalline testing program similar to that already extensively used by the Department of Corrections for adult narcotic addicts on parole from State institutions.

Youths on parole will be given frequent, unannounced surprise tests with Nalline, a harmless drug administered by a physician to determine whether a person has been using narcotics. Parolees found to have violated the terms of their parole by taking narcotics would be returned to penal institutions for further treatment and rehabilitation if possible.

THE CALIFORNIA Youth Authority survey shows that more narcotic users came from Southern California than from the North, and there were more boys than girls who were definitely users.

It must be understood that the new survey by the California Youth Authority does not include adults and it pertains only to those young people who have come under the jurisdiction of the Youth Authority through court action. Experts are not in agreement, but some estimate that for every youngster who falls into the clutches of the courts, there are from 10 to 20 who have not yet been caught.

WHEN MY Nalline Test Law was presented as Assembly Bill No. 2738 and passed by the Assembly on June 6, 1959, I publicly stated that it provides merely a test for parole violation and to some extent a means for criminal investigation, but it not a cure for the narcotics habit. Again, when my bill was passed by the Senate on June 16, 1959, it was explained on the floor of the State Senate that this is an effective weapon against narcotics but not a cure.

Nalline is a drug which is injected into the body of a narcotic suspect by a physician. It causes changes in the size of the pupil of the eye in such a manner that the physician can determine in about one-half an hour whether the subject has been using morphine or heroin constantly, occasionally, or never.

IN OAKLAND, where the drug has been used more than five thousand times without adverse consequences, the Chief of Police, W. W. Vernon, has told me that although narcotic addiction is primarily a medical problem, very few drug addicts voluntarily seek medical help. Such people must be caught by law-enforcement officers, convicted of some crime, and then given care in an institution, followed by careful guidance while they are on probation.

Those who have questions or suggestions regarding legislation on narcotics are invited to write to me at Post Office Box 777, Inglewood 5.
